

Welcome to my Webpage

Introductory sentences or paragraph. May include the fact that you are taking an elective class in webpage design. May just state that you are building a webpage about things that are important to you.

- A list of
- Links to other
- Webpages
- That you have built

Be sure to include a link back to your index.html page on each additional page you create!

(an image, minimum of 1, maximum of 5 per page)

(a horizontal rule)

We haven't learned how to do this yet but it's easy. You use them as visual dividers between sections of your page. Here's the code:

```
<hr color="code" size="n" width="w" align="center" noshade>
```

[HR stands for horizontal rule. N should be the number of pixels high you want your rule. W should be the number of pixels wide. Align can be left, right, or center. Noshade means you will not have raised edges on the rule. You can leave that out and see the difference it makes.]

Optional:

- A list of
- Links to your
- Favorite webpages
- To visit on the Internet

Be sure to include a link back to the Fuller Website somewhere on your page. It could be in the optional list above.
